Doug Esty, Julie Thompson, and David HB Drake presenting Folk Music Classics from When Times Were a' Changing.

Dangerous Folk lead those good old songs we grew up on. These anthems from the days of "make love, not war" still resonate today.

"Blowing in the Wind" is a "mighty wind" of classic folk music memories for the over 50 "boomer" audience and for younger people as well. These are not "protest songs"... rather it is music that affirms the positive message that shaped our lives. The power and honesty of these songs span the generations.

Thank you so much for putting on such a great performance for Earth Day. People loved the tribute to Pete Seeger and singing along to familiar songs. Dangerous folk sounded great!

"You folks are dangerous- your songs speak to our hearts and minds"

~Sandy Lewis, Audience member
