Chris Farrell & Dean Milano

For over 35 years Chris Farrell has been a mainstay of Chicago's famed singer-songwriter scene. Honing his writing and performing skills while sharing the stage with music legends Steve Goodman, John Prine, Bob Gibson and others, Chris has emerged with his own distinct brand of songwriting and showmanship to carry on this proud tradition.

"Scorching lyrics. The humble nuance and the honest heart of the little guy."
Dave Hoekstra - Chicago Sun-Times

"Dean Milano's songs reflect his extensive background in music in multiple genres, and are sparkling compositions that range from humorous to introspective, solid melodic tunes that cover a wide range of topics. . . . Dean is a contemporary singer-songwriter in the folk tradition, a troubadour with a mind, a heart, and a soul."
Lilli Kuzma- Folk Festival on WDCB Public Radio

Dean was born in Milwaukee, but moved to the Chicago area in 1964, just in time for the Beatles arrival and the subsequent forming of garage bands on every block of every city across the country.

And of course, Dean jumped into the fray and never looked back.
